

‘Where your child’s learning takes flight’

Little Magpies believes in creating a fun environment for children to flourish and develop their social and emotional capabilities, alongside others.

We nurture relationships between kaiako and children, and believe your child is the heart of Little Magpies.

We believe our tamariki learn best in an environment that is inviting and predictable which empowers them to engage in child led play.

The role of the teacher is to support children to be active participants in their learning alongside their peers and the environment.

Our team of kaiako are dedicated professionals with a commitment to working in partnership with whānau and the wider community.

We believe relationships are the foundation to creating lifelong learners.

We are committed to knowing our tamariki as individuals, giving recognition to their language, culture and identity and understanding the holistic way in which children develop and learn.

Responsive practice that acknowledges diversity allows children’s learning to take flight.
